Association

STATIONS CLASSED

Standards Are Set Up for Each Subdivision of Wireless Work

The Broadcasting association of Los Angeles held a lively five-hour discussion yesterday afternoon at the Express broadcasting station for the purpose of arranging a definite time schedule. Stations were divided into three classes—classes A, B and C. Standards of each of the classes were voted upon and in case any of the class A stations fall below the standard of their class they will fall into the B class automatically until the next monthly meeting of the association. Contained in the same resolution is the statement that any station now rated as class B or C will be advanced to class A should such station show advancement which would merit such action. The stations placed in class A were:

KWH—The official broadcasting station of the Los Angeles Examiner, located in the Examiner building.
KYA—Hamburger's radiophone and official broadcasting station of the Los Angeles Express.
KFI—The Earl C. Anthony radio phone located in the Anthony

GIRL JUNIORS DEFEAT SENIORS IN GOOD GAME

Third of Interscholastic Baseball Series Draws Good Audience

On Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the junior and senior girls' baseball teams met in a "peppy" game, the juniors winning with a score of 30-12. This game was the third of a series of the class A games now being played, and both teams did splendid work. They will also play a series of interscholastic games.

Never before in the history of the high school has such interest been manifested in girls' baseball as this year. Every class in the school has a team and one is as enthusiastic as the others.

The juniors worked especially hard, as their score would show, and stand a good chance of winning many more games. The lineup for the winning team was:

Elowine Trullit, p.; Ruth Hunt, s.; Marion Gray, 1b.; Doris Moyse, 2b.; Jessie Hunt, 3b.; Helen Sherwood, 1ss.; Marion Sonley, 2ss.; Orrel Hester, 1f.; Alice Domsler, cf.; Eleanor Long, rf.; substitutes, Grace Yarbrough, Lillian Tracy and Florence Hamilton.

Those on the senior team were: Dorothy Cotton, p.; Lulu Drake, c.; Corinne Heacock, 1b.; Lois Kimball, 2b.; Theo Payne, 3b.; Louise White, 1ss.; Alta Jurs, 2ss.; Lucille Nelson, f.; Bertha Wheeler, cf.; Beatrice Volk, rf.; substitutes, Erna Studinski, Vera Hayden and Caroline Gray.

The game was umpired by Winifred Spindler, with Jessie Griffin as base umpire and Frederica Marshall as scorekeeper.

AL MALAIKAH CALLS 'ALL ABOARD'

Make Reservations Now for Shrine Trip to Honolulu

The last call for reservations for the Honolulu pilgrimage of the members of the Al Malaikah is being issued today. The number of reservations possible is limited, and for this reason those who have any intention of making this trip should apply at once at the Matson Navigation company, 339 Merchants National Bank building, Los Angeles. Here are a few of the inducements offered by this trip:

Palatial steamer, unexcelled cuisine, continuous round of deck sports and entertainment, picturesque tours around the island to Waikiki beach, the aquarium, botanical gardens, Oriental section, Bishop museum and a visit to Kilauea, the largest active volcano in the world, besides numerous other side trips too numerous to mention.

Rules for Success Given by Wheat King Arouses Henry James

Henry James in his comment on the news of the day runs across this heading, "Wheat King Gives Rules for Success," and after reading the rules finds that the wheat king does not know much about success, but is merely a gambler who has won more often than he has lost. Mr. James says that the king doesn't give any rules how to get the money, but just tells you to go and get it. In the great human pack, Mr. James says the wheat king is no higher than a two-spot.

James W. Foley, in his philosophical way, shows how that the man who drives his seed into the ground with a hammer and expects it to grow isn't much of a farmer, and likens to him the hot, angry and bitter teachers, preachers and moralists.

Then there are editorials full of life and information; there are features by Della Stewart and John Pilgrim, paragraphs, and Dr. Frank Crane writes on "Marbles."

Turn to the editorial page and read it from start to finish and you will agree that it is the best editorial page published in any newspaper west of Chicago.

MRS. E. B. MOORE ELECTED HEAD OF P. T. A.

Federation Holds Annual Meeting at Intermediate School

The Federation of Parent-Teachers' Associations of Glendale held its annual meeting and election of officers today at Intermediate school.

Officers submitted reports of the year's work which showed devotion to duty and many good things accomplished in standing back of and co-ordinating the efforts of individual associations, and rallying them for promotion work in connection with school bond elections.

There were expressions of appreciation of the work of Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., who has filled the presidency so efficiently, and the organization voted to send her as its delegate to the federation convention in San Diego, May 23 to 26.

It also set the date of its annual picnic at June 12 and accepted the invitation of Mrs. White to have it on her home grounds at Lexington and Orange.

Officers elected were president, Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, who has had recent experience as president of the Cerritos union P. T. A.; vice-president, Mrs. E. S. McKee, who has been serving the Colorado P. T. A. as president; recording secretary, Mrs. Leslie Tronsier, to succeed herself; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lord; treasurer, Mrs. Percy Prialux; auditor, Mrs. H. V. Henry; historian, Mrs. A. H. Morgan.

INTERMEDIATE CLUB TO RAISE FUND FOR COURT

To Stage Entertainment
Tuesday Afternoon
on Campus

The Intermediate Athletic club has recently built a handsome new ball court at an expense of $90 in order to raise a fund to cover part of the expense it is giving an athletic entertainment Tuesday afternoon on the school campus, which will include games of indoor baseball between a picked team from the fifth and sixth grades against a team from Intermediate, probably the junior team. There will also be a long-talked-of game between the A-7's, who won the seventh grade championship, and the A-8's, who have just won the eighth grade championship. It is likely to be a very close contest with both teams on their toes, as the juniors will be solidly backed by the seventh grade and the A-8's will be determined not to be beaten by the "scrubs." It should easily prove the best game of the year at Intermediate.

There will also be side line features. One of the boys will act as "coon dodger," there will be concessions for the "man-eating fish" and others, and booths for the sale of candy, pop, balloons, etc.

TROOP NUMBER THREE IS CALLED

Troop 5, Boy Scouts of Glendale, under the leadership of Frank Ayars, will meet tonight at the Central school at 7:30 o'clock, instead of tomorrow night. The change is made because of the evening session at Intermediate. This troop is organizing an orchestra and is under the instruction of Mrs. Searles.

PICNIC CALL ISSUED BY CIRCLE FOLK

Readers Accept Offer of Park Grounds From
Mrs. Swartz

TO BE HELD JUNE 14

Delinquency of Children
Is Studied at Regular Meeting

"Solving the Problem of Juvenile Delinquency," was the title of the review given by Mrs. H. V. Henry at the regular meeting of the Glendale Reading Circle held Wednesday at the public library.

In this article, published in the "Dearborn Independent," Judge John P. Simms, himself the legal father of 3000 boys, gives some very pertinent facts on the subject of moral laxitude among children, and the part played by parents in bringing about such conditions.

"The average normal child," according to Judge Simms, "will repeat the history of the race, dividing his life into four periods, that may be classified as follows: First, the period of savagery during which he digs caves and builds fires out of doors, the time in which he longs to live the primitive life of the Indian.

"Second, the barbarian stage, when the gang life is developed.

"Third, the age of chivalry when womanhood is idealized.

"Fourth, the age of civilization.

"If parents would try to understand their children and realize that during these different stages of development boys and girls will strive to do certain things, if they would make allowances for their children, Judge Simms thinks there would be little need for a juvenile court.

Next week's review will be on "The Stranger Within Our Gates." It will be given by Mrs. C. L. Vierick and deals with the problem of immigration.

At the afternoon session the reading of "Mother Love in Action" was concluded.

Plans for the reading circle picnic to be held June 14, were discussed, the president appointing Mrs. Vierick chairman of refreshments, Mrs. Rowe chairman of decorations, and Mrs. Whytock chairman of the program committee.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Swartz, the sculptor at La Ramada, the use of the park was secured for the picnic.

A short article on the subject of weight vs. height in children, taken from a recent periodical, was read by Mrs. A. A. Barton, chairman of the circle.

A class for the study of parliamentary law is being organized, mainly for the benefit of new association officers but any member wishing to join is eligible. The class will be under the direction of Mrs. P. S. McNutt, who has done such fine work along this line. Information regarding it can be had through Mrs. A. H. Brown on North Howard street.

BEWARE THE FRUIT PEDDLER SWINDLER

The fruit-peddler swindler is in town. Mrs. Darling of 327 El Bonita reported to the Glendale police last night that she purchased some fruit from a peddler who came to her home. As he could not make change this fellow suggested that Mrs. Darling send one of her children to the nearby store with him so that sufficient change could be secured. She did so, but pretty soon the little one returned without the change—the fellow had left the neighborhood without even going to the nearby store.

TWO VICIOUS DOGS ARE REPORTED

Two cases of alleged vicious dogs were reported to the Glendale police yesterday.

W. C. Harris, 905 Mariposa street, reported that he had been bitten by a dog belonging to 217 East Acacia street. The animal was a small, black, straight-haired and carried a license. The police were unable to find the dog. Mr. Harris was given treatment and a close watch will be maintained to find the dog.

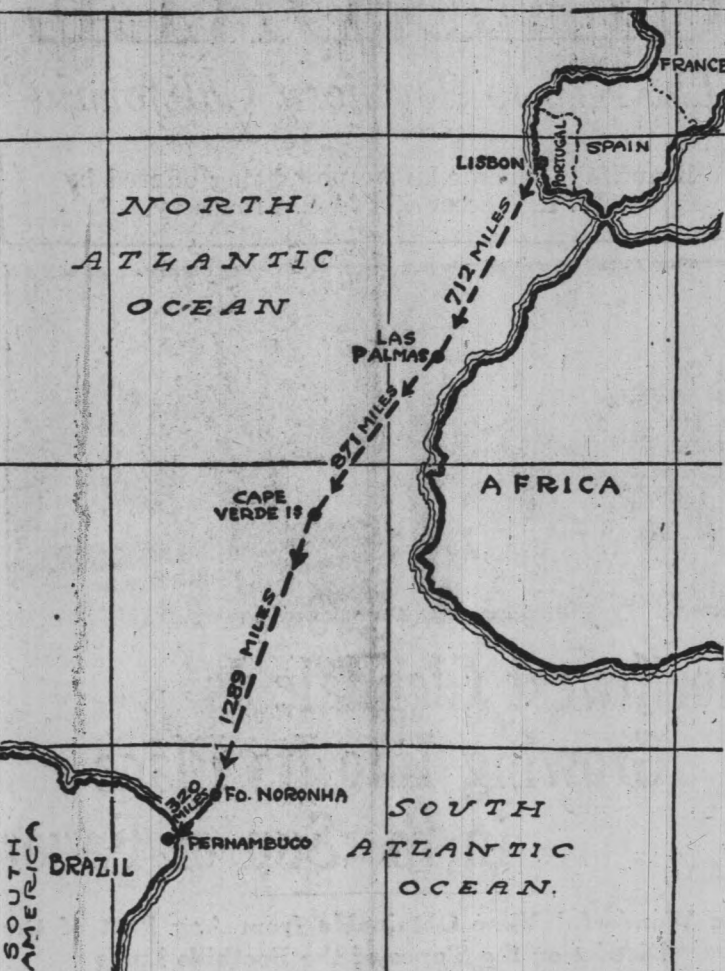

A call was received from 637 West Salem street to the effect that a dog in that neighborhood was acting strangely. Sanitary Inspector Eollenbeck answered the call and found it necessary to kill the animal.

LONESOME GOAT IS PICKED UP

Has anybody lost his goat? A goat was found yesterday by P. E. Grant of 230 Sonora street. He reported the matter to the Glendale police, who are this morning frantically endeavoring to find the owner of the "butter."

So if you have lost your "goatee" the police will be more than glad to turn over to you this little hay-eating machine.

MAP OF TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT ROUTE

LISBON, May 11.—The Portuguese flyers today resumed their interrupted trans-Atlantic flight. They left the island of Fernando Noronha in a new Fairey hydro-aeroplane exactly at noon.

Although the wireless message announcing the start of the flight did not make clear their route, it was believed they intended to fly to St. Paul Rocks, where their first machine was damaged, and then return to Fernando Noronha and proceed to Brazil, completing their flight from Portugal, begun over a month ago.

The fourth trans-Atlantic air flight will have been completed when the Portuguese flyers, Captain Coutinho and Captain Sacadura reach Pernambuco, Brazil, from St. Vincent, Cape Verde islands. The flight was started from Lisbon, March 30. Stops were to be made at Las Palmas, Canary Islands, St. Vincent, Cape Verde islands and Fernando Noronha. The air line distance between Lisbon and Pernambuco is 3192 miles. This map shows the route. Other successful trans-ocean flights were those of the NC-4, from Trepassy, Newfoundland, to Plymouth, England, May, 1919; Captain John Alcock and A. W. Brown from Newfoundland to Ireland (non-stop), June, 1919; British R-34 from Scotland to Mineola, N. Y., July, 1919.

Bringing In Industries

The presentation of the viewpoint of the Glendale Daily Press upon Monday night's meeting at the chamber of commerce raised considerable discussion of the possible ways and means in connection with the induction of industrial plants into Glendale. Of bringing to the city much needed payrolls.

The discussion is not confined to members of the chamber of commerce. It radiates through every home and business place in the city. Glendale is roused, thinking of those payrolls and plants.

The events that preceded the meeting were few. A gear-cutting plant made application to the chamber of commerce for its endorsement. The chamber of commerce immediately got busy and sent its secretary to investigate the proposition and report.

He reported favorably. Little headway was made when the local sale of stock in the company was attempted.

The delay caused the meeting Monday, called jointly by the city council and the chamber of commerce. At the meeting an effort to raise a stated sum by popular subscription was held up for further investigation.

The fact that it was held up indicates that there was a weakness or an error in presenting the proposition to the chamber of commerce.

The errors, not weakness, for there was no lack of vigor in pressing the proposition, are very clear.

The Glendale Daily Press recognizes the fact that Glendale has reached a status of growth which necessitates a payroll.

The Glendale Daily Press is willing, and becoming daily more able to do a large part toward bringing payrolls to the city.

But the Glendale Daily Press seriously questions the desirability or advisability of either the city council or the chamber of commerce recommending the purchase of any stock in any company under any circumstances.

With recommendation goes responsibility for success. Success is composed of many elements, the absence of any one means wreck to the enterprise and cannot be detected until operations begin. Then it is too late.

So much for the action of the civic and business organizations on Monday night.

Consider now the proposition.

If any enterprise seeks local financial support it must come before the people of the city with a bona fide proposition.

The proposition must be compiled by a firm of auditors of standing and reputation.

The proposition must present some evidence of proper management in the past as an indication of the future.

There is not the slightest possibility of such a presentation being neglected or ignored.

The people of Glendale are very unwilling to permit any real investment proposition to elude their grasp. But the people are not willing to submit their judgment to the inexperienced opinion of any not qualified by service to express an opinion.

If the chamber of commerce and a committee of citizens will start a fund for the purchase of ground to be either given without cost to meritorious industries or to be sold at a nominal price the Glendale Daily Press will be glad to head the list of subscribers as an evidence of its desire to see business done in a business way.

But the Glendale Daily Press will oppose the endorsement by any organization of any corporation offering stock here. If such stock is sold it must be sold on the merits as presented by its seller—and bought at the discretion of its buyer.

Let us buy a tract of ground for industrial purposes. Then work all together to interest going manufacturers with assets of long careers and working capital behind them to come to Glendale. There are many such.

DESPODENT GLENDALE ENDS LIFE

E. W. Braman, Hotel
Worker, Found Dead
of Poison

LIVED HERMIT LIFE

Body Found by Neighbors in a Room With Two Dogs

Despondent, E. W. Braman, 1229 Grand View avenue, ended his life some time last night. His body was found in his home this morning by P. W. Parsons of 1225 Grand View avenue. Mr. Parsons said that Braman, who is about 60 years old, has been despondent for several months. Mr. Braman has been employed at the Hotel Grand, 623 1/2 South Spring street, in Los Angeles and has been living alone at the Grand View address in this city. His only companions have been two dogs, several cats and a flock of chickens.

Mr. Parsons was the last to see Mr. Braman alive. Last night according to the story told the police by Mr. Parsons, Braman said that he was going to take the first street car to Los Angeles this morning to relieve his employer who was going to Big Bear lake for a vacation. He asked Mr. Parsons to feed his pets and the chickens and told him that he would find food for them on the table in the kitchen. When Mr. Parsons entered the kitchen this morning at 7:30 he found a note on the table with the following instructions written on it: "Please notify the Glendale police." A search of the house revealed the body of Mr. Braman lying on the bed in his bedroom. The police were notified immediately and Detective Sergeant Kincaid assigned to the case.

On a chair beside the bed a glass with a white crystallized substance believed to be poison was found and a revolver. No shots had been fired from the revolver. On a trunk was an empty bottle marked "poison." The glass had a smell of almonds and police are basing their theory that death was caused by poison.

Among the effects of the dead man were found several letters indicating that he had been corresponding with a woman named Mrs. Ethel W. Braman, whose address was given as Box 238, Station "C," Los Angeles.

The body was left in the house by Detective Kincaid pending instructions from the coroner.

CARPENTIER BEATS TED LEWIS IN THE FIRST ROUND

OLYMPIA, LONDON, May 11.—Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, blasted the last British ring hero here tonight when he knocked out Ted Lewis in the first round.

Coming out of a clinch after two minutes of fighting, the Frenchman crashed a right-hander to Lewis' jaw and the Englishman went to the canvas for the full count.

The crowd, expecting to see its idol last at least three or four rounds, with an outside chance to win, was stunned by the dramatic climax of the battle. Disappointment gave way to indignation and the crowd yelled: "Foul! Foul!" claiming that the Frenchman had struck Lewis in a clinch. The referee, however, took no action.

MOVIES SHOOT AT CITY HALL

There was a shooting bee at the Glendale city hall this morning. It was a regular free-for-all affair, but no one was hurt. The Thomas Ince company, with about 200 actors, actresses and "ham performers," were there. Some were pretty, others prettier; and still others resembled an "old mudface," but anyway, they served to clutter up the sidewalk and grace the film.

The picture that is being made has not as yet been titled. Douglas McLean is the leading man and Miss Edith Roberts is, as usual, the dear, unassuming, shrinking, blushing bride. The picture is a comedy-drama and, as is generally the case, the leading role gives the feminine lead a wonderful opportunity "to display her remarkable dramatic talents."

Everything was there, including the band.

London Is City of Smiling Girls to Jack Dempsey

LONDON, May 11.—England is "cute" and London will go down in Jack Dempsey's memory as a city of smiling, pretty girls, the world's heavyweight champion says in a signed article appearing under his name in the London Express. It follows:

By JACK DEMPSEY
Published by permission
London Daily Express

While I admit that I may enter the ring in Europe, this was surely not my object in coming across. I'm here because my fate—or my fists, if you like it—have given me a chance to see the world.

My time here has been one thrill. England is the neatest, cutest thing I've seen. I could stand a lot of England. I have always been told that the English are a cold-blooded nation. Some one double-crossed me on that.

London is something I had never imagined. It has not been built like New York—it grew. I have seen all the sights of London and it strikes me as the greatest experience I have ever had. There is a lot of the same between the British and American nations, yet I detect lots of differences. You don't notice it in the hotel where no one stares at you if you call a bag a grip. It is attention you get in some one's home that you begin to feel a bit foreign.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT DATE SET

Exercises to Be Held June 15th, If Hall Is Obtainable

Commencement exercises for grammar schools are to be held June 15 if a suitable auditorium can be secured, preferably the high school auditorium, although that is hardly large enough to accommodate all who will want to attend.

A combined meeting of Cerritos and Intermediate students who are to graduate was held at Intermediate Wednesday afternoon and class colors of blue and gold were decided upon. Another matter settled was that of the costumes, the girls to be dressed in white middie suits and white shoes and stockings, and the boys in their best clothes, whatever they may be.

A change from the plan heretofore followed of having a program by graduates is being followed and County Superintendent of Schools Mark Keppel will make an address. The full program has not yet been worked out.

Wayne Yarrick was elected class president and Freeman Grant, secretary.

RADIO CONCERT AT PRESS BUILDING RECOMMENCES

Improved Magnavox Is Installed, Giving Larger Volume

The radio concerts begin again today at the Press building, this time with an improved magnavox, giving a large, clear volume that will carry the tones clear across the street and possibly a block beyond.

The best results ever achieved will be had this afternoon and in the concerts that are to follow daily hereafter.

Since the concerts were suspended, in order to use the apparatus in the public service elsewhere, improvements have been made and the broadcasting stations and schedules have been revised.

Be sure to be at the Press building when the schedule printed in this issue is in operation.

MAY LURES YOUTH FROM SAN DIEGO

It is reported that a young man, 21 years old, is running wild in Glendale. He has a dandy little Ford roadster—and loves to travel.

Mrs. Spaulding of the Hillcrest hotel, San Diego, telephoned to the Glendale police yesterday that her son left that city last Monday and it is believed he came to Glendale to pay a visit to a young lady friend of this city. The address of the young lady in question has been ascertained, but she is not at home—she is enjoying a visit to Mt. Wilson. Thus far the police have been unable to locate young Spaulding.

Governor Stephens will deliver the principal address on "Topics of the Hour," but will not deliver a campaign speech.

President Val Hollister of the chamber of commerce will preside and Mattison B. Jones is the tentative selection for toastmaster.

After the address by Governor Stephens there will be more music and a 30-minute reception in order for the people of Glendale to become acquainted with the governor.

This is one of the most important forum meetings that has ever been held in Glendale and the forum committee and Secretary James M. Rhoades are urging that all members of the chamber of commerce make an effort to attend. Reservations for the dinner may be telephoned into the office of the chamber.

HOTEL PLANS ARE LAID BEFORE EAST SIDERS

Mrs. Tight's Committee Reports on Project for Holstery Here

Members of the East Glendale Advancement association met at the White Inn on South Broad at 12 o'clock where an excellent dinner was served by Mrs. Jack Thomas.

The chief interest of the session as outlined by Secretary Herman Nelson this morning, was to be the report of the hotel committee of which Mrs. Mabel Tight is chairman, and which was enlarged a week ago by the addition of about half a dozen new members.

The committee admits it has many applicants ready to furnish and lease a hotel at the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue in the city will provide the structure. The question the committee is working upon is whether such a hotel would be an asset of sufficient value.

First Area Is Entirely Sold Out and the Second Is Following Its Career of Appreciation Showing Northwest Holds Its Charm

Probably no residential section in the city has grown in popularity so rapidly as has the northwest district. The merits of this locality present themselves immediately to the person looking for a homesite. It is much higher than the remainder of the city and also from this section a wonderful view of the mountains to the north is obtainable, as is a wonderful panorama of the entire San Fernando valley.

Another tract in this locality is just being opened by W. E. Mercer of 624 East Broadway. The first tract opened by this firm has been entirely sold out and the rapidity with which these homesites were snapped up shows that the "great northwest" has lost none of its charm.

This new tract that is being put on by Mr. Mercer is located in the Kenneth road district and all of the lots in the piece are large, being 58x200 feet in size. Each one of these big pieces of ground is covered with bearing fruit, which makes it all the more valuable. The street improvements are all in and everything is ready for the buyer to take possession at once.

Mr. Mercer has been a resident of Glendale for nine years and has been in the real estate business for the past five years, having bought out a going concern. He is now building a lovely home in Glendale, which he and his family will occupy when completed.

Congressman McFadden
to Speak at Bay City Convention

The next Suburban Day of the Los Angeles City Club will be held next Saturday, May 13, at Ocean
Park, on which date "Firemen's Day" will be celebrated at the various beaches. The boosters of this particular Suburban Day are trying to make it one of the biggest events of this kind thus far held. It will be remembered that a short time ago this club held a Suburban Day in Glendale, when some big events were held in Verdugo Woodlands during the day and in the evening at the high schools.

Following will be the program of the day:
At 12 o'clock noon, luncheon will be served at the Los Angeles City Club, C. C. Chapman building,
Eighth and Broadway, Los Angeles, followed by an address on "Our Water" by William Mulholland, Los Angeles' world renowned hydraulic engineer, singing and music by Hon. Spencer Robinson, Mayor of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry
Girard; Invitations to the Beaches, Hon. Samuel L. Berkeley, mayor of Santa Monica, and Hon. Edw. A.
Gerety, mayor of Venice. We will then adjourn to go to the beaches.

At 3:30 p. m. the Boosters' Club of Ocean Park will stage a fire department demonstration at the junction of the Pickering Pleasure Pier and the New Dome Pier in which the two fire departments of Santa Monica and Venice will show their two-city fire fighting forces in action, working as a unit, with firemen who have been exchanged back and forth by the two cities to familiarize both forces with the fire hazards and fire preventive means and equipments of both towns. The co-operating police cor-also be on hand together with two

Louis T. McFadden, congressman from the fourteenth Pennsylv-

constitutional amendment to prohibit the issuing of additional tax-exempt securities, will deliver the principal address of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards at San Francisco on June 1. The convention will be held from May 31 to June 3.

Mr. McFadden will discuss the financial situation that has been, to a large extent, brought about by the flooding of the country with securities not subject to taxation and he will report the situation in regard to the legislative measure of which he is the author and which is supported by the national association of real estate boards.
Mr. McFadden will also discuss future cooperation of the national association, not only in assisting members of congress in the consideration of legislation which has to do with the economics of land and real estate, but in rendering effective service to other governmental agencies.

The national association has been able to render material and effective service to the department of commerce and has frequently been called on for specific assistance by Secretary Hoover. Service has also been rendered the department of internal revenue and to other government organizations, particularly during the war period.

SCHOOL CLASSES IN J. O. C. OF FIRST METHODISTS TO GIVE POPULAR MILLINERY ARE

Miss Hobush, Instructor of Night Classes, Is Leaving

Dressmaking and millinery have proved exceedingly popular courses in the night school. The instructor, Miss Wilhelmina Hobush, has asked for and obtained a leave of absence to go abroad this summer to study in Paris and to extend her leave for a few weeks at the beginning of the fall term.

Following is an article from her pen relative to the work of her department in the evening school: "Every woman enjoys the thought of being able to produce her own hats and gowns, and this pleasure has somewhat been realized by the women who have attended the evening millinery and dressmaking classes at the high school this winter. Many have shown deftness for designing and have created some very attractive hats and gowns, while others have acquired this. It has been a satisfaction for many of the women to learn the most common processes and how to choose hats adapted to face and coloring, even if later one buys one's hats. With such elementary principles and practice in making hats for herself and friends, much has been accomplished.

"The discussion of the importance of dress, the general principles of line, rhythm, balance, and unity and color of gowns, have been discussed in our classes with much interest."

LOW BUILDING CO. PLANS ART BUILDINGS

Inexpensive Houses Are Described in Booklets Just Issued

The distribution of a free booklet of 12 new plans of inexpensive homes, by the Low Building company, has brought many callers to the concern's local offices. This new booklet shows many homes in actual colors, each photograph accompanied by a miniature blue print floor plan, and complete specifications for each respective house. This booklet is being distributed gratis, and is also a supplement to the 50-cent book of 100 plans which the Low Building company is distributing.

According to the local concern, home building in Glendale and vicinity will be exceedingly active during the next 60 days, and several contracts have been secured by the firm for the erection of ready-cut homes. One of the most beautiful ready-cut homes now under erection by the Low Building company is that of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Root, of East Maple street. This home is of modified English design, with one of the new high pitched, slate finished roofs, iron gridded work, and is replete with distinctive features. The design is adapted from a costly English manor, and when finished will no doubt be one of the most attractive homes in the city.

GLENDALE THEATRE REPEATS FILM

"A Virginia Courtship," which appeared last night at the Glendale theatre, was received very favorably by the large number of people who witnessed the screen version of the story. These people and the large number who were unable to attend this unusual offering will be pleased to learn that the play will be repeated tonight, this giving several hundred more a chance to witness this production. Eugene Presbury, author of this, one of the most famous of Southern plays ever written, is an old-time Southerner and he knows that country as well as he does his own name. While the play was written years ago it has been modernized so that it applies admirably to the present time.

The lead, Prudence Fairfax, is taken by May McAvoy, who has ample opportunity to display her dramatic powers to the limit.

PALM CANYON TO BE MONUMENT

Efforts are being made at this time to have Palm Canyon, which is located something like 95 miles east of Los Angeles, a national monument. One of the principal workers to this end is A. C. Lovelock, who a short time ago journeyed with Francis P. Farquhar, one of the big men of the national park commission, deep into Palm canyon, for the purpose of giving it a thorough "look over." Mr. Farquhar says he thinks this "canyon" is the most beautiful natural park in the United States. Palm Springs, a small place, located several miles from Palm canyon, is now undergoing a boom. Pieces of ground are being subdivided and some is selling for as high as $100 per front foot.

Mrs. Straus has been invited to attend the fashion show June 15th, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, and it is her plan to reach that city in time to attend.

Proprietor of The Glendale Units With Rotary Club Plan

Bill Howe, who hasn't forgotten what it is to be a boy, is spending a lot of time and telephone tolls negotiating about numbers for the matinee planned by the Rotary club for boys' week which is now on. It will be given Friday afternoon at the Glendale theatre and it will include a Fox News feature, a Pathe Review, a Harold Lloyd 2-reel comedy, an Aesop's Fable number, a vaudeville juggler, viz: Juggler Mathieu, who gives an Orpheum act, and possibly a second juggler. The performance will take about two hours and is certain to please the boys.

ACCOUNTING TEACHERS

Nowadays we are all accountants. Fortunately, those of us who account successfully do so for a gratifying salary. But, like all modern improvements, doing it successfully now requires a high level of special training. The State university, southern branch, is offering a number of attractive courses in its summer session designed to enable commercial teachers to improve their technique and their salaries. Dr. C. A. Le Deuc, assistant professor of accounting, who is in charge of the July courses, says that he is already responding to inquiries, and that those desiring to take the courses should communicate with him at 855 North Vermont avenue. The classes are to be limited in order to insure individual instruction.

"The Sheikh's Wife," which will be shown at the T. D. & L. theatre today for the last times, is more than anything else, a pulsating story of warm-blooded Oriental love. Incidentally, it deals with a world-wide problem of interracial marriage.

The entire story of "The Sheikh's Wife" is told with true artistic feeling. There is no villain, in the hackneyed sense of the word. The psychology of the Sheikh, who loves his wife with an ancient fierceness and who tries to dominate her in true Oriental fashion, is sympathetically set forth.

KENTUCKIANS REUNION

All who ever lived in the Blue Grass state are called to meet under the auspices of the Kentucky State society for a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, May 13, in Sycamore Grove park. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors, even with thousands present.

There will be a brief program opening about 2 o'clock, songs, short talks, Hon. H. G. Redwine, president, will preside and have charge of the day. The main purpose will be to have a good time and to let the people do the talking. We want to see all the tourists and visitors from the old home. Bring your basket well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the silk souvenir badges.

Each one who learns of this is asked to pass the word along. Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the federation of state societies, office in the Continental National bank, Main and Ninth streets, phone 10261, where the great Kentucky state register may be seen.

Aids to Digestion

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.

It is a real aid to digestion to take one's meals in a bright, attractive looking room, and at a table neatly set with clean eating utensils and linen.

The effect of this is to create a pleasant mood, and pleasant moods have experimentally been proved to promote the flow of the salivary and gastric juices, so essential to digestion. For the same reason it is important, not merely to exclude all angry or worrying thoughts during a meal, but also to keep the table conversation as light and agreeable as possible.

Even to talk over business matters while one is eating may be detrimental to the digesting of the food eaten. This because a business talk may involve such hardthinking as to draw to the brain blood required by the stomach for the purposes of digestion.

And because the stomach, especially while digestion is in its early stages, does require an extra supply of blood, it is a good rule not to set one's self to any strenuous work, physical or mental, for at least half an hour after a meal.

The intervening period should be spent either in complete rest or in light recreation, such as the taking of a leisurely stroll. On the other hand, one should never, when relaxing after a meal, do go with the thought insistently present in the mind: "I am doing this for my digestions' sake."

Thus to think is to keep the mind's eye intently turned, so to speak, on the digestive process. And digestion, like all other bodily processes, does best when not too closely watched. To think about digestion too much may be, and often is, productive of chronic indigestion.

And, just as one should avoid too strenuous exertion immediately after a meal, so should one endeavor to avoid eating too soon after strenuous exertion. In any case, when one is greatly fatigued there should not be indulgence in a really hearty meal. Indigestion is almost certain to follow such indulgence.

It is thus that indigestion often develops in people who, albeit they have not been working hard, may have exhausted themselves by taking too little sleep, seeking amusement too strenuously, etc. Fatigue from whatever source, if present in any great amount, always interferes more or less with the workings of the apparatus of digestion.

If, however, care be taken not to overdo, pleasurable recreation, indoors or out, is itself a positive aid to digestion. There are not a few victims of dyspepsia whose persistent digestive discomfort is due more than anything else to the fact that they have never learned to play.

Finally, to mention one more aid to digestion, it is of real importance to take sufficient time at one's meals, and to endeavor to eat one's meals at about the same hour every day.

Principal causes of the indigestion so prevalent that some have termed strenuous twentieth century existence, must be accounted among the hasty eating and irregular eating, so much in evidence in our life the disease of the age.

—By Ripley.

MOTHERS OF THE GOLD STARS ARE HONORED

Lester Meyer Chapter War Mothers, Meet in Legion Hall

Wednesday was Gold Star Mother day for the Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers, and it held a very interesting meeting in the American Legion hall at 610 1/2 East Broadway. The chapter also entertained the Women's Relief Corps and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Harley G. Preston singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The next number was a reading by Mrs. Samuel Dick entitled "Why Should the Lives of War Mothers Live?" This was followed by a reading by Mrs. McKee entitled "My Star." Mrs. McKee is a gold star mother from Los Angeles.

Rev. Preston then gave a splendid talk on "Our Soldiers When They Were Abroad," and he finished his talk by saying that when the boys were longing to come home they would repeat or sing "O, Mother O' Mine."

Mrs. Mary Drake gave a clever recitation, "A Young Girl Proposing to a Soldier." Miss Dorothy Peart then sang "Little Mother O' Mine," and "Smiling Beauty." The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Samuel Dick. After this splendid program, refreshments were served to a large number. At this time Mrs. H. L. Hock was elected chairman of the program committee to entertain War Mothers on Friday, May 16, when they are attending the state convention in Los Angeles. She will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Drake, Mrs. W. E. Heald and Mrs. Catherine Rowe. Delegates to the convention as appointed were Mrs. Samuel Dick, with Mrs. J. N. McGillis as alternate.

The program yesterday was in charge of Mrs. Minnie Sherwood, assisted by Mrs. Mary Drake, Mrs. H. Bennett of Laramore, N. D., was a guest of the chapter.

Piston clearances

4/1000 of an inch when cold 1/1000 of an inch under fire

An automobile engine having a 4" bore will have when cold a clearance between its pistons and cylinders of approximately 4/1000 of an inch. When the same engine has been heated to operating temperature, this clearance will have decreased 75%, or to 1/1000 of an inch.

Likewise, a main crankshaft bearing having a clearance of about 1 1/2/1000 of an inch when cold, will show a decrease in this clearance at operating temperature to less than 1/1000 of an inch.

All oils lose viscosity, that is, they become lighter in body when subjected to the heat of engine operation.

An analysis of Zerolene shows that the differences in its body at the various engine temperatures, from cold to operating temperature, follow in close relation the decrease in bearing clearances.

The right body at all operating temperatures

For this reason Zerolene oils have at all engine temperatures exactly the required body to splash and flow freely into the fast-moving, small-clearance bearings to provide an adequate film of lubricant.

Because of their "oiliness," Zerolene oils cling to bearing surfaces, and at the same time offer in themselves a minimum of resistance to the engine power going to the driving wheels. For this reason they give perfect lubrication and permit the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.

Truths in Epigram

Man's life is but a jest, a dream, a shadow, bubble, air, a vapor at the best.
—Thornbury (1828-1876).
I sit beside my lonely fire and pray for wisdom yet: For calmness to remember or courage to forget.—Aide (1830-1906).

The voice of one who goes before, to make the paths of June more beautiful, is thine Sweet May!
—Helen Hunt Jackson (1831-1885).

THE JURY SYSTEM

It is likely that the time required in getting a jury to try Governor Small of Illinois will cover a period of weeks. This is because the case, really a criminal case, has to be viewed in the light of politics. If a talesman belongs to the same party as Small, he is supposed to be ready to ignore the evidence, and return a verdict in accord with his own partisan bias. If he belongs to the other party, or to a different faction of the same organization, it is expected of him that he will be controlled by prejudice, and that the facts actually adduced will have no influence in the reaching of a verdict. Thus lawyers for the respective sides try, not to get honest and unbiased citizens, but a set whose bias will constitute their real value.

These circumstances are not unusual. There always is difficulty in procuring a jury in an important trial. Sometimes this is because the talesmen have to deny that they have discussed the case, have formed any conclusion concerning it, or even that they have any knowledge of it. Having done this, the chances are that some have perjured themselves, and the others are too densely ignorant to be fit to have voice in any decision. Such a jury often defeats the purposes of the court, by being so grossly wrong that its conclusions must be set aside.

That a man's politics should have the power of shaping his opinion, when this opinion ought to be based on facts and law, is rather a sorry reflection upon citizens who doubtless hold themselves to be models of conduct. Whatever may be the result of the Small trial, it will be ascribed to the preponderance of political faith in the jury-box, rather than to the working out of a perfect justice.

WHY THEY ROB

Four footpads recently arrested for an attempt to steal a payroll have given their reasons for the undertaking. "These rich guys have it coming to them," was the explanation of the first. The others said in substance, that they needed money, and did not see any quicker way to get it.

Investigation has proved that most of the crimes of violence are committed by drug addicts. The reckless courage they display, the desperate chances they take, their willingness to add murder to their activities, are due to the use of drugs. They are inspired by dosage of their favored poison, and their reason for needing large sums of money is to procure more poison.

Most of the robbers are not of the laboring class. They are not in quest of work, and they do not want work. When not on marauding expeditions they are loafing in some resort where addicts foregather, and there amidst the fumes and stench of their chosen revelry, they plan the next crime. Every one of these addicts is a potential assassin. Every one is a peril not only through his tendency to rob and kill, but because he is a corrupting influence, drug addiction spreading as readily as any other infectious disease.

Just now a war on the use of drugs is being waged. It deserves the fullest support of all good citizens. They must support it on moral grounds, and for self protection. And just at the same time, prison reformers are urging the abolition of jails.

GERMANY'S GRIP UNBROKEN

Potash essential to the American farmer must be purchased in Germany. It is little less than shameful that this should be so. There is no legitimate reason why it should be so, but it is.

During the war when no shipments could be received from Germany, American enterprise went into the production of potash. Millions were invested. So far as appears now these millions are lost. The mills they erected stand idle, and the mines they opened have been closed; for the benefit of Germany. While Germany could not ship potash, Germany could continue to make it. It had its own labor at reasonable wage all the time, and it had the unpaid labor of war prisoners, some of them Americans. It was piling up the product against the day the sea lanes should be free to traffic again.

Germany could undersell the American manufacturer of potash, and was so ready to do so that the manufacturer knew he must have the benefit of a tariff, or quit. German competition meant, of course, cheap potash for only such time as required utterly to crush competition. It meant in the end that the American potash market would be at the mercy of the Germans; not an enviable situation, precisely.

American money went into the production of potash in much the same spirit that other American money went into Liberty bonds. That which went into potash seems to represent a permanent and wholly non-paying investment. This country does not clamor for a high tariff. It does not desire such tariff as would have a tendency to create monopoly. But any prejudice it may have against tariff, does not go to the extent of desiring protection to be withheld from American capital in order that German capital may thrive at the expense of Americans.

Congress seems not to favor any expenditure for development of navy accommodations. It did not succeed wholly in de-naturing the naval establishment, but apparently intends to make it uncomfortable.

Ex-President Wilson may be without political influence, but if Senator Reed of Missouri could convince himself of this, doubtless he would be much comforted.

UNFAITHFUL AMERICANS

Early in the world war a young American correspondent was caught doing confidential work for the German embassy. He was carrying papers that Sterndorff did not dare trust to any of his group of spies. The correspondent's career closed with that episode. What became of him his old newspaper associates do not know. They are aware only that he dropped from sight, and it is not believed that by any course it would be possible to make him persona grata to any of the places at which once he was welcome. No publication would accept anything bearing his signature.

Later in the war William Bayard Hale was in Berlin for Hearst. He sent German propaganda and nothing else. It was his province to convince the allies that they were engaged in a hopeless struggle. He stood well with the German high command. Whatever might have been the real opinion concerning him, he was regarded as a faithful servant of Germany. The fact transpired that he had been paid $15,000 yearly salary by Germany. In addition to his newspaper pay, doubtless he considered that he was doing very well.

Hale was exposed more fully than the other discredited correspondent. That he had made himself amenable to laws regarding the delicate matter of treason, was the common opinion in this country. He never was punished, although for a time he seemed to have "gone into the silence." Now he is out again, still a Hearst correspondent. He sends from Europe, just as though anybody on this side would believe it, a tale of the French scheme to dominate Europe. Doubtless it would pain him greatly were France to take this course that, taken by Germany, he had so unctiously approved.

His allegation does not appear to have any basis in fact. France is inclined to protect itself, and to go to any length necessary. It is in no humor to permit Germany to become aggressive. It is striving to undo by firmness of front, part of the harm that was done when the armistice permitted the German troops to return to the busy factories and unscathed farms of their native land, bearing their arms and waving their banners. Such an attitude as this depresses Hale. He really is quite melancholy about it. The fancied attempt of France to do to Germany what Germany had tried to do for France and the rest of Europe, disturbs his peace of mind.

As an unfaithful American, Hale deserves effacement as complete as that experienced by a minor offender of the same type. It is an insult that his name should be seen as author of any article set before the people of the United States.

Quite naturally Tacoma objects to being eliminated as a port of call. It has one of the finest harbors in the world. It is the first point at which rail shipments over northern continental lines can get to salt water. Its ocean shipments would be far greater than those of Seattle except that a ship receiving almost a full load at Tacoma, frequently stops at Seattle to take on some inconsequential addition to cargo, and then clears from the latter port, which gets undeserved credit for the whole shipment.

MARBLES

This is a day of sports. The average man is tired of international politics and of the boresome problems of religion and public welfare. What we are interested in now is baseball, horse racing and long distance running.

The other day John O'Connor, who had been entombed overnight behind a fall of over a thousand tons of debris, was rescued from a mine in Bargoed, Wales. The first question O'Connor asked on reaching the surface was, "How did Ireland and Wales get on yesterday?" referring to the football match at Swansea between the Irish and Welsh teams.

There is also a story of a man who died and went to heaven. When he reached the gate St. Peter asked him where he came from. He replied that he came from Chicago.

"What time did you leave?" asked St. Peter. "About 6 o'clock," said the man.

Whereupon St. Peter eagerly leant forward and inquired, "What was the score?"

In this condition of the Zeitgeist it would seem about time that more attention was paid to the game of marbles.

Marbles probably occupy more thought in these United States during the early summer months than any other one subject, and the newspapers are shamefully neglectful in the matter of giving us due information concerning the game.

They tell us about tennis scores, and gold matches, and horse races, and even bridge games, but all these things interest only grown people, who will all be dead in a few years, anyway. Why is it that we have no information about Bud Hopkins, the champion marble player of the Third Ward school, who won 2 cornelians, 3 agates, 5 chinas, 12 whites and 15 comies from Bill Kelly and Fatty Grubs last Saturday afternoon over behind Headley's barn? Fifty boys were present. There was great enthusiasm and six fights. The preacher's boy, Wilbur, licked the butcher's son, Charlie Goldschmidt, because he said Bud Hopkins cheated. Wilbur only lost one tooth, but that had been loose anyhow.

That there was the exciting game over in Mid-diesworth's barn after school on Wednesday. It almost resulted in a race war, as Cicero Brown, the colored boy, won the game. Better counsels prevailed, however, and trouble was averted; although it was whispered among the sports on the way home that Cicero had fudged.

No attention is paid in the papers either to the fact that the comies sold at Hardcastle's grocery are bumpy. Teddy Johnson tried to return those he bought and to get his 10 cents back, but old man Hardcastle refused.

The subject is an inviting one and items of interest are multiplied. Willy Smith has a flint with twelve nicks in it. Isidore Stumsky lost a big crystal down the sewer hole.

And so on. We submit that in the interest of true sport more attention should be paid to marbles.

THE LISTENING POST

A man was planting seeds.
In hard and flinty soil.
Which is no proper place to plant seeds.
Because it has not been properly prepared.

It was not possible to get the seeds into the soil by the ordinary means.

For the wise farmer prepares his soil.
Plows and cultivates and fertilizes until the soil is soft and loamy.

Receptive, you might say.

For receptive soil insures the growth and germination of seed.

And flinty soil means that seeds will fail to germinate.

And the wise farmer knows the right method of sowing and preparation.

But the man of whom we speak was not a wise farmer.

So he paid no attention to the soil.
Seed was sown and soil was soil to him.
And seed put in soil must grow.

So he bored holes into the flinty soil and drove the seeds in with a hammer.

A strange method of seeding to be sure.

But many strange things are done in the world.
And this sower thought if he got the seed into the ground by any means it would produce a crop.

Just as many teachers and preachers and moralists think if they drive facts and preachments into the human consciousness they will bear fruit.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Song—Charles Kingsley (1819-1875)

Oh! that we two were Maying
Down the stream of the soft spring breeze;
Like children with violets playing
In the shade of the whispering trees.

Oh! that we two sat dreaming
On the sward of some sheep-trimmed down.

Watching the white mist steaming
Over river and mead and town.

Oh! that we two lay sleeping
In our nest in the churchyard sod,
With our limbs at rest on the quiet earth's breast,
And our souls at home with God!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

OLD WINE IN NEW BOTTLES

[New York Times]

Truly there is nothing new under the sun, as has been said some millions of times. The latest information regarding life in the spirit world, as given out by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, can be found in a book first published in London in 1758. These findings are contained in Swedenborg's "Heaven and its Wonders and Hell," and can be purchased for 5 cents. This may console some who are seeking information but can't afford the $3.30 down a seat. Accidentally running across the book the other evening, I consulted the "Encyclopaedia Britannica" to find who Swedenborg was, and among other things learned that "he enjoyed immediate revelation from the Lord—was admitted into the angelic world, and had committed to him the key with which to unlock the divine treasures of wisdom."

Having lived in the other world twenty-seven years (according to his own statement) while still living here, he was able to report with scientific accuracy what he observed there. According to the "Encyclopaedia" he was 150 years ahead of other scientists. His death, by the way, occurred in 1772, just 150 years ago. Because he was so great a scientist, perhaps, he preferred to get his information direct instead of through mediums, ectoplasm, automatic writing, etc., which Sir Arthur considers important. Swedenborg never received a penny from his voluminous writings, covering twenty-seven years' observations, but gave them freely to the world.

While I know nothing about spiritualism, and have read the book mentioned only enough to find out how much more information it gives than is given by Sir Arthur, it seems to me that those who are thinking of experimenting with mediums will save themselves time, money and mental strain by first glancing over this book. The author went direct to "headquarters" for his information and reported it fully in 1758. Whether right or wrong, it is the same information that is being brought out a little at a time through darkness, mediums, etc., 164 years later. The main difference is that while Swedenborg reported all sorts of details and spoke with the positiveness of one thoroughly familiar with his subject, present-day investigators seem hazy and unconvincing.

WHAT IS CIDER?

The definition of cider as the "natural fermentation of apple or other fruit, vegetable or herb juices," in the bill introduced in congress by Representative Hill of Maryland to legalize the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer and cider, differs materially from the dictionary definition, and offers interesting possibilities if the bill becomes a law. "Grape cider," resulting from the natural fermentation of grapes, would be likely to bear a suspicious resemblance to wine; "potato cider" might be hard to distinguish from Russian vodka, and the fermentation closely akin to undistilled cherry brandy. The difficulty might come in holding down the alcoholic content to the prescribed 2.75 per cent. Left to its own devices, ordinary apple cider will develop eight per cent of alcohol.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"Wheat King Gives Rules for Success." So declares a headline. All that one learns from the context is that the "wheat king" does not know much about success. He has been an active and efficient gambler, and has won more often than he has lost. He is obliged to measure his achievements in terms of money alone.

This man says that education is not particularly essential. He has not even a remote conception of the fact that education has a value apart from tangible results to the individual. The astronomer, scanning the heavens through the night, does not acquire wealth, but he adds to the store of human knowledge. He reveals to the world the workings of the wondrous laws of God. He does more for the advancement of intelligence and so of mankind than all the "wheat kings" ever enthroned on stacks of grain they never beheld, but whose lives have been one long series of preying on industry as parasites prey on a vine. The wheat pit gamblers have no more moral standing than the gang of newsboys rolling bones in the alley. It is a pitiful spectacle when one of them stands up to boast of his success. In a fine and noble sense, he never has tasted success.

The man said "Ideals aren't worth a damn unless you go to bed early, rise early, fight all the time you are awake, and save your money."

Not a word as to how to get the money; just get it. A pretty program the old speculator, buying or selling stuff according to whether, by whatever trick or device he has beared or bulled the market, holds up as a lesson to the young.

A man who raises vast quantities of wheat, adding to the wealth of the world, might with justice be termed a "wheat king." The man who does nothing to augment wealth, but exerts himself to profit by the labor and capital of others, may be a smooth operator, but he is no king, nor even a jack. In the great human pack he is no higher than a two-spot.

There is a fashion, in the most part a pretense, of proclaiming love for children. People as a rule do love their own children, and this is the limit of their affections as bestowed upon the young. The children of the neighbors are regarded as nuisances. The average landlord would not think of renting a house to a family having boys or girls. The baby that happens to be observed casually, is mentioned as "cute." A passing interest is likely to be shown in it if it is accompanied by a good-looking mother or nurse.

Why should publicity be given to a report, that Dempsey and Willard are to fight again? Nobody believes the report, even if interest in the general subject of sports leads him to see the page where it is printed.

A fight between this pair could be nothing but an effort to procure money through false pretenses.

There has been much discussion as to whether there is or has been an honest professional gambler. Such an individual could be regarded as possible. A game honestly conducted favors the dealer by a percentage that would make him a certain winner in the long run. As a rule, however, games have not been honestly conducted. Cheating has made the richest pile up so much faster. Years ago there was a Denver gambler named Cliff Bell. Nobody ever accused his place of being crooked. It didn't need to be, for without resort to this method it swallowed up many a fortune large and small.

In a Kansas City pulpit a minister held debate with a representative of the ku klux. Without desiring to rebuke the minister, it may be remarked that one of his calling cannot be too careful of the company he keeps.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last time that Jimmy Garrity broke—actually broke—into the public prints was when a certain well and favorably known prince came to America to give us loyal Americans an eyefull. Jimmy did not like the prince's ancestry, his nation—which was something else again—or his war record. So he filled up on hooch and tried to call. By the time the imperial inner and outer guards had finally disposed of Mr. Garrity, the princely retinue looked as though it had been hit by a Ford.

"I made 'em listen to me, anyhow," rejoiced Jimmy as he was led away by some of the admiring men-at-arms kept for that purpose by a great city.

But it cost Jimmy his job. His boss had overlooked too many events of the sort to be disposed to patience in this case. There were some months when Jimmy looked like a stage tramp and when he lived entirely on what used to be nickel whisky and has now gone up to fifty cents a shot. When he reached the final stage of collapse some old friends found him and sent him to the hospital. For a year or so he has been handling a big job and handling it well. He is a top-notch in his line.

"Where's Jimmy?" I asked the other day.

"He blew his job," said our mutual friend. "He's on the loose."

The trouble was that Jimmy lacked that final grain of moral courage. Twice he got drunk in his new job. That would have been forgiven, for the boss was an old rounder himself, and he knows that some drunks are medical cases and not merely weak-willed humans. But Jimmy tried to hide out and tried to lie. He was just as successful as though he had tried to cover a bull elephant with a pup tent, and he disgusted the boss.

"If you had come around and told the truth, I would have stayed with you," he said. "But a liar I can't abide."

So Jimmy is again sleeping under bridges.

SPECIAL PROGRAM LIFE CONFERENCE

Fitted Music Marks Progress of Victorious Life Theme

Every session of the Victorious Life conference, which is meeting in the Presbyterian church, is favored with fitting special music, in which service has been kindly given by Mrs. A. M. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Ramsey spoke of "The Great Divide," the difference between what "ye were" and what "ye are," as presented in the second chapter of Ephesians. "Ye were" separated, far off, walking away, doing your own will, and not God's. But, when you are saved, all that becomes a reminiscence. But be sure you have crossed the divide. Then you have come into the family relation, heirship. This opens up the boundless riches of familyhood. Heirship does not depend on what we can do, but upon relation to God and what He can do.

Mr. McQuiklin spoke of a man he saw in a meeting for poor down-and-outs, a very fine-looking and handsomely garbed man, who made the astonishing confession that he had formerly been of the lowest of the low, and then he joyfully exclaimed, "But God! Oh, glorious But!" "The Great Divide," on the one side all darkness and wrong, on the other side Jesus, whose will for every one is to have all He has to give. He is pleased with the heart that is true, that means to please Him.

Last night Dr. Ramsey gave a great development of the subject in Romans 7:24: "Wretched man that I am who shall deliver me from the body of this death? I thank God through Jesus Christ, our Lord."

HI FRESHMEN WIN FROM FRANKLIN

South Pasadena School Put Up Game Fight But Loses Out

The freshman baseball team of Glendale high school defeated the team from Franklin high yesterday afternoon at South Pasadena by a score of 5 to 2. The battery for Glendale was Bradbury and Muff, while Sex did the hurling for Franklin, with Moore receiving.

Bradbury's pitching was a feature of the game. He held the Franklin team down to one hit and struck out 12 men. Muff also played good baseball. He smacked the pill for three bases.

The Glendale players took the Franklin men for five hits and made each hit count for a run. Sex was able to strike out but three Glendallians. The error side of the book showed six for Franklin and four for the Glendale team. Drury of Glendale, in attempting to stretch a two-base hit into a three-bagger, was put out, but his attempt did succeed in putting over a score for the Glendallians.

The baseball situation in the grammar schools is approaching the high point of excitement, according to Mr. Blanford, athletic director for the grammar schools. In the western division the Columbus and Cerritos teams of the senior and junior classes are tied for first place, while in the eastern

LEWIS-CARPENTER BOUT ON TODAY

LONDON, May 11.—Huge crowds began to gather at the Olympia here tonight three hours before England's last pugilistic hope, Ted Lewis, was to enter the ring for a 20-round fight with Georges Carpentier, world's light heavyweight champion.

Lewis was given a great demonstration when he arrived to weigh in. His weight was not announced but the scales were said to have been set at 160 pounds and he did not move the beam. He was fully clothed.

"I have no doubt that I'm going to win. Jack Dempsey and other experts figure that I'm a sure loser, but I don't see it that way," he said.

Carpentier, a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting, stripped before stepping on the scales. He tipped the beam at 175 pounds.

He predicted he would win quickly. He looked to be in good condition. The crowd hanging around the place knew that his rather pale complexion was natural.

When the late General Horace Porter was manager of the Pullman company an army officer wrote him saying that the Pullman car that had carried him from Jersey City to Long Branch had not been properly swept and dusted. General Porter wasted-basketed the letter; also the second, the third and the fourth. But the fifth was so violent that General Porter dictated the following reply:

"Sir—We have run the train off the track, burned the cars, shot the conductor, hanged the porter, and discontinued the line. Hoping that this will be satisfactory, I remain," etc.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

THE BAD BABY WAS TOO SMART THAT TIME.

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Oh, that bad little baby squirrel! I course he didn't know any better. But he called Daddy Green-crest a "beast," which is an insult to any one who doesn't wear fur, and he made it worse by saying he needed his hair fixed. A giggle in all around the listening woodsfolk by the Duck's Oak. They knew how vain he is of his long, floating badfeathers. And Daddy Green-crest heard it. He tightened his back.

The widow squirrel could have taken her naughty little fluffball, just when she was wheeling the ticks around so they'd hunt another place and let her keep their elegant nesting-hole. But she tried to smooth things down—temper, my friends. "Doesn't he take a lot of notice," she smiled, "for such a fellow? Though he couldn't try well help seeing that elegant name—it's really wonderful this season."

But Daddy Green-crest didn't like have folks laugh at him—before his mate, too. "I'm sorry," said he, "you'll really have to move. I'll give you till tomorrow afternoon when the shadow of the wick touches Chips Beaver's dam." Of course the widow began to holler. "But I've no place to go-to!" and Coon knew of one, but he didn't speak up because he also knew she was having a grand time telling all her troubles with the woodsfolk there to listen. He understood her perfectly. "How can I look for one when I have no one mind my poor helpless little baby?"

But that awful squirrel baby killed the nuts," as the sayings are, for a third time. "I didn't die. I'm a big thquirrel now," he lisped through a toothy grin. You said it with time we wathling around if that woid didn't looking." And the townsfolk shrieked and howled over the fact his mother had been trying to kill them.

But the smart baby thought he was the funny one. "Um-hum," he giggled, "just these how nithe I can do." He made a jump for the duck which the ducks were chasing. Daddy Green-crest put a wing—for it looked as if the baby were going to land right on it. It caught the little rascal beneath his chin and sent him whirling.

Of course he turned in the air and came sailing down, spread and tail flat out behind a bird flying. A shriek from

But Chips was right there to catch him by the scruff of the neck and tote him ashore.

ASK $200,000 FOR LOS ANGELES

Upon the petition of the Regents of the University of California, the Governor and the State Board of Control have approved a deficiency appropriation, under section 680 of the political code, of $200,000 for the Southern Branch of the University of Los Angeles, in order that that institution may admit all qualified students who present themselves at the opening of the fall semester, 1922.

An appropriation of $1,000,000 was made by the 1921 legislature to carry the Southern Branch of the University for the present biennial period with a limited enrollment of 3000. This number was exceeded in September, 1921, and it was necessary to turn away students who applied for admission. The same situation, or worse, is certain to be repeated in September of this year. The regents felt that it was not good public policy to permit this condition to continue. Consequently they presented to the Board of Control the minimum amount which must be ex-

To Acquire Skill

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

"Practice makes perfect" is an old and often quoted saying. But it is a truth saying only with important reservations. And, indeed, every-day observation shows that there are many people who, no matter how assiduously they practice this or that activity, never arrive at anything like perfection.

One reason may be that they are practicing along wrong lines as a result of having been taught wrongly to begin with. The better the teacher, the more apt the pupil, holds as true of the acquisition of skill as of acquiring intellectual knowledge.

That is why, in business establishments where skill in the handling of materials, the running of machinery, etc., is of great importance, care usually is taken to select the most expert workers as instructors of novices.

It is appreciated that the novice will learn not merely through conscious attention to what the instructor tells him, but still more through unconscious imitation of the latter's movements. Repeated imitation of these movements—that is, practice—will then gradually give the novice a high degree of skill.

If, however, the instructor be none too expert himself, the tendency on the novice's part will be to imitate unconsciously his teacher's faulty movements.

Practice under this condition can hardly make for perfection. To gain that there will have to be another period of conscious relearning under some other instructor, or by intelligent self-direction on the learner's part.

It must also be remembered that there is such a thing as over-practice. This makes, not for skill, but for decreased efficiency. Every athlete who has had the experience of "going stale" will appreciate the truth of this.

On the other hand, it is important not to confuse a period of "staleness," due to overpractice, with a period of mere arrest of progress. The one calls for prompt cessation from practice for a time, the other indicates rather a need for more faithful practice.

Certainly the arrest period should not be taken as a reason for discouragement. As explained by E. J. Swift:

"Periods of arrest in progress are intervals for consolidating the information or skill won by the learner during his advance, but not well organized because he was too busy making gains.

"This cessation of progress, however, is only apparent. It is not a real arrest, for during this time the facts and information are being automatized for ready use."

Swift also remarks, after pointing out that nearly every learner is subject to such periods of seeming non-improvement:

"In the case of certain individuals especially adapted to a given piece of work progress may be continuous to a high level of efficiency."

Which reminds me that, as concerns various activities—painting, the playing of music, etc.—there are some persons naturally so ill-adapted to them that no amount of practice will insure perfection in their case. Fortunately, however, their deficient adaptation usually becomes soon evident to themselves or their instructors, and they turn to something else.

With these reservations, then, the dictum that practice makes perfect may be said to hold good. And he who practices faithfully, but not too persistently, and with a good model for imitation, may reasonably count on acquiring the skill he craves.

Millionaire in 60's Whose Wife of 21 Has Returned to Her Home

Jonathan Godfrey, millionaire manufacturer of Bridgeport, Conn., who, in his sixties, finds himself deserted by his young wife whom he married in 1919 when she was 18 years old, finds himself at a loss to understand why she left him and returned to her former home in Bristol, R. I.

Congresswoman Robertson, of Oklahoma, was talking "about women in politics."

"Woman lacks political training as yet," she said, "but there's no reason why, in time, she shouldn't do as well in politics as man does. Certainly in replying to hecklers she will do well. I remember stopping one still October evening to listen to a woman preaching some new creed to others from a soapbox."

"Say," a rough shouted to her, "Say, you look cold, baby! Why don't you turn your collar up, like me?"

"Well, you see," baby answered sweetly from her soapbox—"well, you see, I've got a clean neck."

Thomas Fiddle was a very learned young man. At school he shone like all the stars and planets humped together. A sixty-candle-power lamp wasn't in it beside the burning flame of his genius.

But his friends were frightfully disappointed when he refused to accept the degree of doctor of divinity.

One of them tackled him on the subject.

"Oh, well," replied the genius, "it's bad enough to be named Fiddle without being Fiddle, D. D."

DEATH TRAILS LETTER OF HOPE

Mrs. Andrews Receives Wire of Brother's Death After Epistle Comes

Mrs. W. L. Andrews, who formerly lived on Pioneer Drive but is now residing at 1150 Providencia street, has just suffered a great bereavement in the sudden death of her brother, Lewis Powell, in Detroit, Mich., May 5. As yet she has received no particulars. He was but 23 years of age, was a highly talented musician and one of the heads of a conservatory of music in the city mentioned. He had written her a long letter telling of his plan to go abroad and complete his training under some of the masters of his chosen instrument, the violin. The next day after its receipt came the telegram announcing that he was dying.

The relations between the brother and sister were unusually close. Because of the ill-health of her mother, Mrs. Andrews became a mother-sister to her little brother, and the loss is the keener by reason of this bond.

Following is her tribute to her artist brother, a tribute which he naturally expressed itself in verse:

"Brother of mine, your work is done,

And short was your time to live. You wrought at your task with a mighty will,

You gave what you had to give. Your sun has set in the west;

And I sit alone tonight and dream Of the babe I held to my breast.

"I was not your mother, but I filled her place,

And I grew to love you so. Dear little babe that came to our home,

Just twenty-three years ago.

"A master of music you grew to be, And with pride I have read your name

In the list of great musicians, And was happy to read of your fame.

"But silent tonight is your violin, Never again to know The touch of its wonderful master, God has willed it so."

La Crescenta

LA CRESCENTA, May 11.—The regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the Community church will be held at the church this evening.

The attractive home of C. M. Anderson of West Mayfield avenue is nearing completion. Rev. H. A. Kelso will begin the erection of his new home on Los Angeles and Mayfield avenues this week.

Members of the Service league are planning a splendid dinner to be served next Friday evening from 5 to 7 o'clock, at Honolulu and Florentia avenues.

MOTHER'S DAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

It will be a day when all will be given to the mothers' endeavor. A special sermon will be delivered by Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the church, and during Sunday school and church hour, carnations will be given to those attending. White will be exclusively in the decoration of the auditorium.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

ACCEPTANCE
Out of your heart, O Rose,
Some subtle way,
A fragrant essence goes
To greet the day.

I do not ask the Powers
Of All Things why,
I am content for flowers
That glad mine eye.

I am content to see,
To breathe and take
That fragrant soul of thee
That mine may wake.

Out of your heart, O Friend,
Love pours like wine
Into the cup to blend
With this of mine.

I do not ask then how,
Or why this be,
I am content that thou
Art friend with me.

The first and end, who knows?
Since all are blest
In friend and in the rose,
I am content.

My friend loves me and knows,
My roses nod—
For friend and for the rose
I thank Thee, God.

Magnetism (Continued from Yesterday)

Permanent Magnets: When a piece of hard steel has been brought within the influence of a magnet, it is found that the steel retains a certain percentage of the magnetism which attracted it. By stroking the magnet with the hard steel the percentage of the magnetism retained is greatly increased. In fact, the steel becomes almost as powerful as the magnet by which it is influenced. The piece of steel is then known as a permanent magnet as it will retain its magnetism almost indefinitely unless it is dropped considerable or banged around. By bringing a piece of soft iron within the influence of a permanent magnet or in actual contact with a permanent magnet, the soft iron will also become magnetized. It will in turn attract other metals which are magnetic or subject to magnetism and will follow the law of attraction if another magnet be presented to it. That is the piece of soft iron has formed its north and south poles and will repel a north pole when presented to its north pole. Soft iron however, is not what could be called a permanent magnet for as soon as it is withdrawn from the magnetic field which is influencing it, it will lose its magnetic strength, not all of its strength, but practically all. The amount of magnetism that the piece of soft iron does retain is known as its residual magnetism and therefore, the soft iron is only a temporary magnet. The property of steel which causes it to resist magnetization and, once magnetized to retain its magnetism, is known as retentivity. Hard lines of force are said to fill the surrounding space or substance within the field influence of the magnetic field. This is spoken of as permeability. The permeability of air at atmospheric pressure is what is known as 1 perm per square inch and the ease with which the magnetic lines of force are conducted by different substances with relation to air, is expressed in figures and is termed their magnetic permeability, while that of wrought iron is 3000 times as many lines of force as an air gap of the same dimensions.

Magnetic Field: The magnetic effect produced about a conductor or existing in a magnet exerts its influence in a well defined direction and in the case of the electromagnet, which will be explained later, this is always at right angles to the current producing it. The existence of this field may be demonstrated by placing a magnet under a sheet of paper and sprinkling on the paper, over the magnet, iron filings which will take the form of the lines of force which are said to exist in this magnetic field. If the filings fail to take form when sprinkling on the paper, tap the edge of the paper lightly and they will gradually take the form of the lines. This illustrates the influence of the magnetic field. The field as will be noticed, is most powerful directly at the poles.

Magnetic Flux: In the above demonstration the filings will arrange themselves as if to indicate a rotary motion taking place between the north and south poles of the magnet, and this is also apparent in the case of the magnetic field existing about a conductor carrying a current and in a field coil. In all of those instances, the arrangement of the filings indicates the distribution of what are known as the magnetic lines of force, while their apparent rotation shows the direction of the magnetic flux, or flow of these lines of force from one pole to the other, which is termed the magnetic circuit. Just as the electric current flows from the positive terminal of a battery to the negative, so to speak, the magnetic lines of force flow from the north to the south pole.

Phunny Stuff

The latest report is to the effect that a brilliant young inventor has perfected a complete wireless set which fits into a fountain pen. Just as I said last night, it looks as though we would have to be pretty careful with this wireless business. Imagine hubby writing little love note and waves being transmitted to wifely set at home. Wouldn't work well for hubby, would it? Or visa versa. Then again, boys in school whisper to next student and waves are received at teacher's desk. Ruler used to break oscillations. Or some of these stenographers who carry their equipment amidst luxurious locks of golden hair. Kind of looks as the radio waves would get tangled up with the permanent waves and muss up hair. Or then again fountain pen intercepts radio waves and tickles maiden's head causing her to continually scratch, leading people to believe she is infected with cooties. Or big business man signing important contract, waves come into handle of pen and crowd big splurge of ink out upon contract thereby making one grand mess. It might be all right but looks as though it would have its disadvantages too.

Sure were an up-to-date pair;
She was a pretty and witty young lady,
He was a lad debonaire.

They were a couple of radio sharks
So when they would part for a while
Tim would impress his concluding remarks
After this manner and style:

Ring me by radio,
Call me up often, my own;
You are my lady, oh
Sadie O'Grady, oh
Ring me my radio phone!"

The theory class for Saturday evening, will continue from where we left off Tuesday and if possible the Electron theory will be taken up. However the electron theory is a thing which requires considerable study, so it is not assured that same will be taken up at all. The exact course of study for Saturday evening will be published in Friday evening's paper.

certs via radio from the Glendale Daily Press radio car. All that is necessary now, is for the car to drive up to the curb and the crowd gathers before the concert stage begins. Yesterday afternoon the Press radio car drove up to the curb at the croquet grounds on West Broadway, and immediately a crowd gathered. The attendance was served with a very good lecture on the various judicial courts and the various uses they are put to. The next lecture was rendered by a noted journalist, who talked for more than ten minutes. Only once did the program hesitate, that was due to generator trouble at the transmitting station, which was explained by the operator as soon as the trouble was repaired and the transmission was resumed. There were also several selections on the phonograph, one of which was an Hawaiian string section, and every note was heard clear as a bell or as if the musicians were playing in person before the audience. The above program was heard from the Ham-burger radio phone under the auspices of the Los Angeles Express. Also another program which was rendered later in the day by the same station was enjoyed by another throng in front of the shoe shop on West Broadway. MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE

Purposes of Work Started by Mrs. Charles H. Toll Are Told

Glendaleans who have been residents of our city for some time have a fairly clear idea of the working value of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, which meets weekly in the juvenile room of the city library and which was founded by Mrs. Charles H. Toll of this city six or more years ago.

Its aim is to train mothers for more intelligent motherhood, and its continued existence and success have made it famous in many quarters, even in far-away Washington, D. C., where it is listed as the model mothers' reading circle of the United States.

Its purpose and its field have been set forth in the following article contributed by Mrs. Toll to a recent bulletin issued by the California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations. "These are busy times, when the woman, especially if she be a homemaker and the mother of a brood, must look questioningly at anything that bids for expenditure of her precious leisure moments. She is entirely justified in seeking refreshing relaxation of the form that seems best to suit her individual taste. But she is not justified in spending all her leisure time in sheer release from mental activity.

"Unfortunately, the profession of motherhood, old as the race, offering throughout the centuries the startling evidence of the failures that have attended its functioning, is the only one which woman may enter without preparation. Unquestionably, this fact and the tragedies that have upon maternity because of lack of preparation therefor, are in large measure responsible for the falling off of the birthrate. For were a thorough knowledge of the physical, mental and spiritual care the mother should give upon her offspring, the portion of women entering matrimony, a large part of the fear of the responsibilities of motherhood would be removed, and a knowledge of the joys of maternity would replace it.

But since our educational systems do not yet include the training of girls for motherhood, and since children are coming into homes where a sublime ignorance of the needs and rights of childhood is the rule rather than the exception, something must be found to satisfy the cravings of the conscientious mother in her earnest desire to fulfill her duty toward her child in its care and upbringing. To be sure, she may consult educators and librarians and learn of courses of reading she may pursue. But in individual reading one lacks the contact with other minds, and the interchange of ideas with those who are in the same line of research.

"In the circle, composed of four or forty or even a hundred readers, abstract questions will be discussed and a strong light of scrutiny will be directed upon concrete matters of daily import, with immense advantage to all.

"The work done in a reading circle in no way infringes upon the logical work of the P. T. A. Quite on the contrary, it works hand in hand with that beneficent organization; and the best reading circle members are sooner or later found to be the best P. T. A. members. For they carry to that body a richness of knowledge augmented by experience that has rounded out their mental and spiritual beings.

"A well-conducted reading circle offers what the P. T. A. because of lack of time and infrequency of meetings cannot give. It offers constant opportunity for development of thought and reasoning, for exchange of experiences. It cheers the discouraged mother who has felt isolated in her problems, for she finds these not to be hers alone, but the common portion of all mothers.

"Who shall say that an optimistic attitude of mind in mothers is not the greatest stimulus in their efforts to approximate wise and efficient motherhood?"

PROPOSE CIVIC CENTER AT HI SCHOOL

W. A. Horn Makes Novel Motion Before Realty Board

A committee was appointed yesterday by the Glendale Realty Board to investigate the possibility of the city of Glendale securing the present high school buildings and grounds, after the school has moved to its new site, for a city hall and civic center. The committee appointed at the meeting of the realty board yesterday is as follows: W. A. Horn, Roy D. King and W. N. McMullin.

This action was taken at the suggestion of Mr. Horn, who said that he believed that the present location was the place for the city hall and for a civic center. In making the suggestion Mr. Horn said that at present the city of Glendale has no civic center and the need for it is great.

Mrs. Mabel F. Ticht, a member of the realty board, said that she believed that the idea of securing the present high school site for this purpose is impractical. She said that it was her understanding that it was planned to utilize the present high school buildings for a Junior high school when the new Union high school building is completed.

The motion to appoint the committee to further investigate the plan to use the school buildings as a civic center was carried unanimously and the committee appointed.

A request was read to the board from the National War Mothers for assistance in entertaining the delegates to the national convention to be held in Los Angeles June 15, 16 and 17. The letter said that the delegates would be entertained in Los Angeles on the 15th of June and in Long Beach on the 17th, and that Glendale would entertain on the 16th. The principle request was that machines be provided to bring the delegates to Glendale on that night and return them to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Ticht, who read the request, said that the auditorium of the chamber of commerce had been secured for that evening and that the local War Mothers organization would attend to the details of entertaining.

Mrs. Ticht asked that any one who has a machine and is willing to use it on the night of June 16 transporting the delegates to Glendale and returning them to Los Angeles, please communicate with the Glendale War Mothers.

The members of the realty board voted to assist the organization in any way possible to entertain the visitors.

The Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Glendale Christian church, was the speaker of the day. He talked to the members of the board on co-operation and boosting, especially as applied to the Glendale Chautauqua scheduled for Glendale for seven days starting May 25.

Mr. Cole said that, contrary to belief, the real estate men and the preachers of a city have many things in common and can do work together for the betterment of the community. He said: "You have something more than to sell here in selling Glendale real estate and you have something worth while to do in the betterment of this community. Glendale is the best town on earth and is getting better." He said that in laying out new tracts and marketing them that the real estate men are helping the community more than they believe. He urged that every one be a booster for Glendale.

He said that the Chautauqua is a worthy object for co-operation, as it is a great factor in the uplifting of the community. The Rev. Cole is one of the committee of guarantors who are arranging to bring the Chautauqua to Glendale this year. He has also had a part in this work ever since Glendale started the plan of having these programs, two years ago.

In closing he told a few of the business details of bringing the Chautauqua to this city and mentioned a few of the notables on the program for the seven days of May. He called special attention to the notice that Opie Read would speak here on the fourth day of the Chautauqua, which will be on Sunday.
